five part production from the book by Richard Harding Davis

The minister counting one daughter and the count trying to court the other with father on his side, gives this production a touch of humor, while the exciting races with horses coming in neck to neck puts the thrill into it, and though the entire five reels runs a beautiful love story of two couples.

He dreams of the horses that are to win, and then puts up his money on them, and wins every time, he could not lose, he thinks.

COUNCIL TO ASK FOR STANDPIPE

Want Definite Acceptance or Refusal of Plan from Water Company. Will Put Gas Plant By-Product on All Town Streets.

Instructions to take up immediately with the Gettysburg Water Company the question of the erection of a standpipe, to give the town sufficient capacity for adequate fire protection, were given a committee at Tuesday evening's meeting of the town council.

The committee, consisting of Messrs. Gilbert, Stock, and Keith, were asked to get a definite reply from the company whether or not they would erect a standpipe, the implication being that if the concern refused, and that method of fire protection should be found most advantageous, the question of requiring the company to comply with the borough's request could be taken up with the Public Service Commission. It was conceded that a higher water rent would likely be demanded should the standpipe be built. The borough for years has been paying $400 annually.

Councilmen were a unit in declaring the dust nuisance unbearable and some were of the opinion that the amount of sickness now prevailing is due to that condition. After hearing a full discussion, a motion was passed directing the highway committee to start work to-day sweeping the streets and then treating them with a by-product of the local gas plant at a cost not exceeding two cents a gallon. The committee was instructed to sprinkle the streets before sweeping. The work, which is to take in every part of town, is to be regarded as a temporary means to alleviate the dust trouble, the treatment in a more permanent way to be followed as soon as warmer weather comes. The use of oil this early in the season is not deemed advisable.

Some of the councilmen favor the treatment of all the streets with tarvia later in the spring. It is estimated that this will cost $2500 and, if done, the plan is to have the borough pay the entire expense, individual subscriptions not being taken as in other years.

W. W. Emmons was continued as market master for this year and instructed to open the market on Saturday, May first. He will be authorized to allow hucksters to leave the Square at 8:30 instead of 9:30 on such mornings as he deems it best.

Burgess Raymond's resignation was accepted and James Eicholtz recommended to Court for appointment to fill his unexpired term. Mr. Eicholtz is a former burgess whose term was a marked success.

Councilman Trostle asked for seven more lights on Baltimore street, one on each block between the Square and the National Cemetery. Action was deferred for a month.

A request of Fire Chief Plank for fifteen new rubber coats was referred to the property committee.

The highway committee was instructed not to proceed with the building of any further curbs until after the next meeting of council.

Upon request of Councilman Dougherty the laying of a crossing on East Middle street between the properties of Frank Lightner and A. D. Buehler was authorized.

A bill of $153 presented by the Wilson Maltman Electric Company for services in preparing the municipal light plant matter for presentation to the Public Service Commission was tabled. The company has already received $200 for services, which sum was understood to cover everything.

Pavements were ordered at the property of Mrs. Bender, Water street; and the A. D. Buehler property, East Middle street. Henry Kalbfleisch appeared to urge attention to the roadway on Mummaburg street.

The committee on the conduct of the chief of police reported that nothing but hearsay evidence could be secured and asked that they be discharged. The request was granted.

HELD FOR COURT

Failed to Give Bail on Concealed Weapon Charge.

Herman Kane was committed to the Adams County jail Tuesday afternoon, in default of $200 bail, on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons preferred by Chief of Police Emmons.

DROVE RUNAWAY AUTO INTO BANK

Car Got Beyond Control on Long Hill and Approaching Buggy Made Collision Imminent. Car Damaged and One Woman Hurt.

Losing control of his five passenger automobile, as he was descending Heyser's Hill west of Fairfield Tuesday afternoon, Duke Woods, of York, was forced to run the car into a bank in order to prevent serious injuries to himself and the other occupants of the car who included his wife, his mother, Mrs. Woods, of Fairfield, and his aunt, Mrs. Kate Sample, also of Fairfield.

Mr. Woods has been visiting his mother for several days and on Tuesday took her and the remainder of the party out for a pleasure trip. They were returning over Jack's mountain and were descending the long, steep grade of Heyser's Hill a short distance west of the town when the brakes, which had been holding well, suddenly released. The hill is treacherous and Mr. Woods found that a serious accident confronted him if he did not stop the car before it gained great momentum.

To increase still further the danger of a very serious mishap a team appeared a short distance in front of the on-rushing car and, with the road very narrow at that point, it looked for a few moments as though a collision were inevitable. Mr. Woods at once saw the danger.

He accordingly ran it straight into a bank at the side of the road. Fortunately the machine was not overturned and no one was thrown out. His wife who occupied the front seat with him was thrown with great force against the metal part of the windshield and received a severe bruise and cut above the eye. The mother and aunt on the rear seat were thrown forward by the sudden stopping of the car, which was going rapidly when it struck the bank. Aside from a severe shaking up they were not injured.

After looking over the car Mr. Woods found that, although it was badly battered at a number of places, particularly about the radiator, he could still run it under its own power and he resumed the trip to Fairfield where he turned it over to a mechanic for repairs.

The women are reported to-day as getting along nicely and not suffering from any serious injuries as a result of their experience.

COUNTY WHEAT SENT TO EUROPE

Adams County Grain Bought by Exporter in Carload Lots and Gotten Ready for Shipment to Warring Nations.

Twelve carloads of Adams County wheat have been shipped from various stations during the past few days to New York for the European war zone. The cars contained from 1000 to 1500 bushels each and made up part of a large shipment of grain which was bought in Lancaster, York and Adams counties by U. M. Hambright, an extensive exporter, who has his headquarters in Lancaster.

Of the wheat purchased here six carloads were sent out by Gettysburg warehouse men, the other cars going from dealers at Bendersville, McKnightstown, Seven Stars, and New Chester. It is the first time for many years that Adams County grain has been sold for such a purpose and the big shipment, amounting to between 12,000 and 18,000 bushels, marks a departure in marketing local crops.

The effect of the war on the price of wheat generally has been felt here and the high prices received have been recognized as a direct result of the European conflict, but this is the first time that Adams County wheat has been bought solely for the purpose of exporting to the warring countries.

It is said that but little of last year's grain is yet held in the barns of the local farmers, nearly all of them taking advantage of advancing prices, while those who waited for the $1.50 figure got their mark. As a result only about a half dozen barns hold any appreciable amount of wheat and there will be little hauling until the 1915 crop is ready for the market.

The fancy prices realized this year did much to give the county a prosperous year and those farmers who were wise enough to wait have the satisfaction of knowing they got the best returns possible, while others who sold when wheat was about the dollar mark, months ago, have just as keen regrets.

ONE TEAM GETS A SEVERE BLOW

Blue Ridge League May Lose Hagerstown as Result of Fair Board's Decision to Charge them for Extra Insurance Risk.

Charles W. Boyer, manager of the Hagerstown base ball club, has been informed by the Board of Directors of the Fair Association, to whom he presented his proposition asking for use of the grounds and grandstand same as last year, that it would be necessary for him to pay the extra insurance amounting to $447.50, which of course, makes it prohibitive.

While this action does not necessarily indicate that the Blue Ridge League will have to throw up the sponge, as it might be possible for the circuit to go through the season without Hagerstown being represented, it is the belief of many that as that city is the connecting link and hub in the organization, it could not be a success without it. So states this morning's Hagerstown Herald which continues:

"The situation is this. Mr. Boyer took up the work of putting a team into the field, which responsibility he accepted only after no one else came forward and because he was deeply interested in having baseball here upon one condition, i. e., that the Fairgrounds be secured. So far as Mr. Boyer is concerned Hagerstown will be without professional representation in the national game. He believes, however, that the other towns in the circuit can get together and have a league without this city."

"The officers and directors of the Fair Association at the meeting expressed themselves as being favorable to allowing the base ball club to have the grounds but they felt that they could not pay for the extra insurance. "Whether or not it will be possible to adjust satisfactorily this feature of the question, which, of course, can only be done by getting the underwriters to change their views with regard to the extra-hazardous risk, remains to be seen."

"And if Mr. Boyer is not willing to continue his efforts and work to have a ball park established at another site it is simply up to someone else to do it or there will be no baseball."

PROMISES REVELATION

Seligman Asks Clergy to Help Take Action.

Rev. W. M. Seligman, who was forbidden the use of the chapel at South Mountain Sanatorium by order of Health Commissioner S. G. Dixon on Sunday, appeared before the Chambersburg Ministerial Association at the monthly meeting and made a statement.

Mr. Seligman has a statement prepared containing what he insists are the facts in the case and told the ministers he would go to Governor Brumbaugh and others in authority with the same. He claims that he but mildly told a few minor things about the great tuberculosis camp and said that what was not told, but capable of proof, would horrify the state.

He denied using language in his sermons which would shock or offend anybody except perhaps a prude and alleged that he only skimmed over the surface of conditions.

If the gentleman does as he strenuously insisted he would there is going to be some lively reading, even of such matter as may be printed publicly, and worse yet to hear that may not be printed.

CARTER CAR

will be demonstrated in this county: No other car in the county will come equipped as this car. People want to buy cars for pleasure, not to repair along the highway in heat or cold. This car with the gearless transmission and Dayton Airless Tire almost eliminates this trouble. The car and tire come recommended by users and not by agents and manufacturers. From 18,000 to 24,000 miles have been made on one set of Dayton Airless Tires, and one man has run car for 60,000 miles without being in the repair shop. I hold correspondence from the parties.

LOCAL OPTIONISTS STORM CAPITAL

Brumbaugh's Bakers Make Demonstration For Bill.

CROWDS AT PUBLIC HEARING

Thousands Jam Chamber and Capitol Corridors as Advocates and Opponents Present Final Arguments.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 7.—Thousands of local option supporters thronged Harrisburg in a mighty demonstration to help Governor Brumbaugh have the county local option bill passed and ended their day's work with a great mass meeting, the governor being the chief speaker.

In the afternoon more than 3000 enthusiasts filled the hall of the house of representatives, when the law and order committee gave a public hearing on the bill.

James P. Mulvihill, of Pittsburgh arrived in the house with the liquor speakers. Neil Bonner, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania Liquor Dealers' association, accompanied them.

Chairman George W. Williams announced the purpose of the meeting and called the first speaker, Congressman A. J. Barchfeld, who represented the German-American alliance.

"We are unalterably opposed to local option and to prohibition," said Mr. Barchfeld, "because both are a deprivation of the personal rights of individuals."

Scoring the opposition to liquor as the same as that which led the old New Englanders to torture the Quakers and burn women as witches, he asserted that the right to buy and drink wine and beer was an absolute right of human liberty as much as the right to buy "other food."

Twice during his address he was interrupted by howls from the audience when he called the saloons orderly and desirable.

As Chairman Williams spoke the name of Father J. J. Curran, the first speaker in favor of the local option bill, scores of American flags, handkerchiefs and hats were thrown wildly into the air, while the audience arose almost to a man. Father Curran said in part:

"We are not enemies to the liquor dealers, nor to the brewers, but rather to the traffic which they are engaged in."

"I want publicly to congratulate Governor Brumbaugh for his noble fight for local option. We see the governor is keeping his pledges. In deed, the time is past when a public officer can make pledges before election and forget them later."

Replying to the assertion of Congressman Barchfeld that the judges were always fair arbiters in the granting of licenses, Father Curran remarked that the congressmen must never have attended the license court hearings.

Ridiculing the appeal of the liquor men that they should be recompensed if they lost their licenses, Father Curran asked who recompensed the poor woman widowed by drink or the child orphaned by the saloon or the state for the prisons and insane institutions filled.

When Rev. Dr. Von Bosse, of the Evangelical Lutheran church, of Philadelphia, the second speaker for the liquor interests, declared he stood there "as a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ," loud hisses broke from every side of the room. When he passed from that statement to a bit of attack on Billy Sunday, the volume of hissing and jeers again arose until Chairman Williams was forced to use threats of clearing the aisles unless order was restored.

John A. McSparran, State Grange master, the next speaker, said:

"Well, you have just listened to an essay on love, in which was expressed the bitterest hate, and I want now to make an appeal for economic freedom and representative government. What drink leads to is the waste of men and women, the bestiality of bodies and the damning of souls."

IOWA PASSES DRY BILL

Forbids Railroads Carrying Liquor Into the State.

Des Moines, Ia., April 9.—The senate by large majorities passed bills requiring railroads to keep a record of all liquor shipments and forbidding them carrying liquor into or within the state which is to be used for illegal purposes, permitting judges as well as justices of the peace to issue search warrants for liquor; prohibiting collections for payment on liquor sold illegally, and making it illegal to solicit orders for liquors after Jan. 1.

Encountering strong opposition to the more radical prohibition enforcement measures, dry leaders in the house decided to have action deferred on the bill for the confiscation of automobiles used in transporting liquor for illegal purposes.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY TORPEDOES

Steamer and Trawler Are Sent to the Bottom.

London, April 7.—A British freight steamer and a trawler constituted the toll of German submarines reported yesterday. No lives were lost.

The freighter was the Northlands, of 2000 tons, with a cargo of iron ore, which was sent to the bottom in the English channel off Beachy Head on Monday morning.

The Northlands sank in ten minutes. Her crew of twenty-four men was picked up later by the Belgian steamer Topato.

The Northlands was built at West Hartlepool in 1900 and was owned by the Northlands Steamship Company Limited, of Cardiff.

The trawler Aganthe was attacked by a German submarine Monday off Longstone and sent to the bottom. The crew of thirteen men were rescued by the Swedish steamer Tord and landed in England.

Deny Loss of Italian Vessel.

Genoa, April 7.—The owner of the Luigi Parodi, reported sunk by a German submarine, denies that the vessel has been lost. He says that the steamer left Gibraltar on Saturday after being detained there twenty-four hours.

BUSINESS IMPROVES IN U. S.

President Wilson is Told Conditions Are Less "Spotty."

Washington, April 7.—Reports on business conditions in the United States, made to President Wilson, show a steady improvement.

He told callers at the White House that business was becoming less "spotty" and more uniform in its improvement.

Secretary Redfield made his usual report on business conditions at the cabinet meeting. It was said by White House officials that there was every indication that business was better than it had been for many months.

Secretary Redfield laid before the cabinet figures showing a trade balance in favor of the United States of $22,000,000 for last week. The trade balance in favor of the United States for the entire month of March was $145,000,000, against a balance of $173,000,000 in February.

Michigan "Drys" Carry 13 Counties.

Lansing, Mich., April 7.—A sweeping victory for "dry" forces in Michigan was indicated when nearly complete returns from sixteen counties which held local option elections showed that the opponents of liquor were winners in probably thirteen of them. As a result of the election 265 saloons will be closed on May 1.

RUMORS OF PEACE STILL PERSISTENT

Turkey is Believed to be Making Overtures.

TELLS HUNGARY'S POSITION

Former Premier Vigorously Denies Part of Dual Monarchy Will Sue For Separate Peace.

London, April 7.—The persistent rumors that Hungary will sue for a separate peace brought forth a strong statement to the contrary from Count Julius Andrássy, former premier of Hungary, according to a dispatch from Vienna.

The impression continues to increase in Rome, however, that Turkey, one of the other nations reported to be anxious for peace, is doing everything in her power to negotiate peace terms through the activities of Djavid Pasha, the Turkish minister of finance, now in Switzerland.

"If our enemies set great hopes that the internal dissensions of Hungary will bring about a separate peace their disappointment will be equally great," said Count Andrássy, according to the Vienna dispatch.

"Certainly every one desires peace," he is quoted as continuing, "but only a peace calculated to end the evils which we are fighting. The political differences now existing in Hungary probably will exist in the future, but there are no differences on the point that this war affects the foundations of the state, and we must win it."

Want Truce With Germany.

Norwich, Eng., April 7.—The Independent Labor party, by a vote of 234 to 9, adopted a resolution condemning certain members who have been assisting recruiting and at the same time speaking in public in justification of the war and of the foreign policy of the Liberal government.

A suggestion that Great Britain should arrange a truce with Germany, with the idea of reaching a settlement, was greeted with applause. The conference adopted a resolution demanding that in the terms of peace the consent of the people concerned should be obtained before the transfer of any territory; that no new treaties or understandings be arranged without the knowledge of the people; that there shall be a drastic reduction of armament, and the nationalization of its manufacture and that the British foreign policy hereafter be directed toward the establishment of a federation of nations.

Teuton Army Shifted to Hungary.

Paris, April 7.—A dispatch from a Geneva news agency says that Swiss traffic with Germany has been delayed considerably since Friday, because the German railroads are being occupied fully in the transportation of troops from Flanders to Austria, by way of Munich.

These troops will probably be employed to reinforce the Carpathian front. It is also said that large bodies of Austrian troops have been withdrawn from the Tyrol, near the Italian frontier.

THREE PLUNGE TO DEATH

Motor Car Goes Through Open Drawbridge Over Passaic River.

Newark, N. J., April 7.—Three young men, members of the Montclair Academy Alumni association, were drowned when an automobile in which they were riding with four others plunged through an open drawbridge into the Passaic river.

Gordon Knapp, of East Orange; Eugene Stevens, of Newark; and Arthur T. Skinner, whose home is in northern New Jersey, were the victims of the accident.

The men were returning home from a dinner in New York and were given a ride in the automobile by William J. Bittles, Jr., who was saved with three others. A gateman at the drawbridge was knocked into the water and was rescued, but suffered severe injuries.

Dyestuffs Needed to Save 400,000 Jobs

Washington, April 7.—More than 400,000 men in twenty-eight states will be thrown out of work in from thirty to sixty days unless the government persuades England to permit America to import German dyestuffs, according to a delegation which appealed, through Secretary Taft, to President Wilson for relief.

Saves Wife and Child; Loses Own Life

Fredericksburg, Va., April 7.—William Snellings, a merchant of Falmouth, Stafford county, Va., was burned to death after saving his wife and child in a fire which destroyed the home of Dr. C. L. Bradshaw, of that village. The Bradshaw house was occupied by Dr. Bradshaw and Snellings and his wife and child.

THOMPSON ELECTED

Republicans Sweep Chicago With Plurality of 140,000.

Chicago, April 7.—In the largest vote ever cast in a municipal election in Chicago, William Hale Thompson was elected mayor in a Republican landslide that nearly complete returns indicate carried the entire Republican ticket to victory. His indicated plurality over Robert M. Sweitzer, Democratic entrant, is 140,000.

Although at the primaries the women of Chicago preferred Judge Harry Olson to Thompson, the women's vote was an important factor in the Republican's election. Nearly complete returns indicate that Thompson received 66 per cent of the women's vote.

MUST TELL WHERE HE GOT IT

Legislator Would Compel Intoxicating Wayfarer to Reveal Source of Jag.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 7.—Representative Kahn, of Greene, presented in the house a bill requiring all persons in possession of intoxicating liquors or visibly under their influence to inform any policeman, burgess, constable, court officer, district attorney or county detective "at any time asked where, how and from whom such liquors were obtained." Refusal to tell is made a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not over $100 or thirty days in jail.

17 FIRES IN 2 WEEKS STIR WILMINGTON

The Police Doubt Theory of Incendiarism.

Wilmington, Del., April 7.—Seventeen fires in this city since March 24 have started the authorities here to thinking.

They declare there is no suspicion of incendiarism, but admit that so many fires within such a short length of time is hard to account for. Of the seven recent fires, at least three have been accounted for and the cause known.

Since March 24 there have been seventeen fires, which is probably the largest number in the history of Wilmington within two weeks. In most cases they have been extinguished before the loss was heavy, the only real large fire being that at the Sunday Star building. The loss at this fire was about $18,000, and the cause is unknown.

There was no one in the Star building, which is located at 305 Shipley street, when the fire was discovered and had not been since the previous day. The fire started in the upper portion of the building. The structure is in an old and thickly settled portion of the city, and the firemen had great difficulty in keeping the flames confined to the one building, but succeeded.

The fire in the Star building was the fifth which had occurred since 9 o'clock the previous night.

G. A. R.'S FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY

Anniversary of Founding Celebrated in Decatur, Ill.

Decatur, Ill., April 7.—With the unveiling of a handsome bronze tablet marking the place of organization, the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic was observed here.

Bishop Samuel Fallows, of Chicago, department commander of the Illinois G. A. R., was one of the speakers, and Mrs. Inez J. Bender, department president of the Women's Relief Corps of Illinois, presided at the ceremonies.

Within 100 feet of the tablet is the site of the famous "wigwam" in which Abraham Lincoln was first endorsed for president of the United States. The place will also be marked.

Staley, forty-five years old, died in the dressing room of the Hippodrome theater. The cause of death was heart disease, as in the case of his predecessor.

FOR NEW BUILDING

State Board of Education Orders Directors to Rebuild.

An inspector of the state board of education visited the Franklinton, (York County), school building last week and made a close inspection. He took pictures and measurements, and closely inquired about the number of pupils, and the financial conditions of the town. A few days later the secretary of the school board received a letter from the state superintendent that a new school building must be erected before the next term of school opens. The present building is a two-story brick structure with one room on each floor, and besides being too small, it does not meet the requirements of the new school code as to light and sanitation, it is said. There is lacking a full board of directors. On account of removals there are only three at present.

Lee
Makes
Terms
With Grant

By C. LUTHER LANGDON.

(Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.)

THE night sortie by the Confederates under General John B. Gordon on the lines of the Ninth corps at Petersburg March 25, 1865—fifty years ago—was the last aggressive blow by the army of Robert E. Lee. No inkling was given in the Federal camps until the sleeping trench guards on nearly a mile of the lines were aroused by the sounds of attack and the cold steel of a daring enemy was held to their very breasts.

The point selected for the bold enterprise was on the east of the city. Fort Stedman, a bastioned earthwork, with outside batteries, stood on a salient elevation known as Hare's hill.

The Prince George's Court House road ran directly from Petersburg past Hare's hill, crossing both the Confederate and the Federal lines. It seemed feasible for the Confederates to throw a column into this space and add strength to it as it should move down the Federal works toward Grant's left.

Gordon's Daring Plan.

But first it would be necessary to make a breach in these works. This Gordon provided for as follows:

To take Fort Stedman by direct assault at night, then send a separate body of men to each of the rear forts; next to press to the rear of Grant's main line and force him out of his trenches, destroy his pontoons, cut his telegraph wires and rush his flank. The distance from Fort Stedman, where the first blow was to be struck, to the Confederate salient (Colquitt's), where Gordon was to start his storming parties, was sixty rods.

Promptly at 4 a. m. these storming parties, of about 100 each, moved out of the Confederate works and, passing inside of the enemy's picket pits, separated for the work of the hour—the capture of the batteries bearing on Stedman—namely, Fort Haskell on the left, battery 9 on the right and a fortified battery in the rear of Stedman; also a long line of skirmishers deployed to the rear and set out for the interior lines. Some of these reached the United States military railroad running from City Point along the line of Federal camps. Here they cut the telegraph wires.

Meanwhile Confederates swarmed in Fort Stedman. The storming party sent against battery 9 was repulsed and returned to Stedman for reinforcements, and a column set out along the Federal trenches between these points. A strong defense by Fort Haskell against attack gave Gordon's movement a check on the other flank and limited the success counted upon. It was now growing light. Gordon had not silenced the guns which swept the space between the lines where he intended to move out his main force.

The attempt on Fort Haskell was repeated twice with no success, and as similar movements on battery 9 had failed Gordon's men found themselves hemmed in under a galling fire from batteries much nearer to them now than when they occupied their own lines. It was daylight, and the artillery on both sides opened a terrific cannonade, the Federal guns shelling Gordon's men and the Confederate guns firing back upon the batteries and upon the Federal troops drawn up around the breach. Reinforcements which had been promised did not arrive, and Gordon ordered his men to retire. They attempted under a storm of bullets, shell and grape.

Lee's Trenches Assailed.

As soon as the result of Gordon's sortie became known on the Federal left General Humphreys, commanding the Second corps, advanced his men beyond the Confederate picket line, but found the main works too strong to carry by assault. General Wright also advanced his corps, the Sixth, in the same way.

After March 25 there was constant firing across the lines, both with artillery and muskets. Sheridan joined the besieging army on the 27th of March, and the movement to the left around Lee's right flank began on the 30th. The left wing of the Army of the Potomac had also been re-enforced by Ord's Army of the James, from the north side of the Appomattox. The Army of the Potomac numbered 75,000 for duty; Sheridan added 15,000 and Ord about 17,000, making a total of about 107,000. The Army of the James had a reserve of about 20,000, making a grand total under Grant at this point of 127,000. Lee had a total on his twenty miles of defensive lines of 57,000.

The several movements on the Federal left had crowded the Confederates back to one road running in a general direction southwest and lying between the Federal positions and Hatcher's run. Hatcher's run is a swampy stream and made a good barrier when defended at the ford. About thirteen miles west by south of Petersburg there was a good road crossing the run and leading to the South Side railroad. This railroad has Lynchburg and Danville connections and was of highest importance to Lee in Petersburg.

At Five Forks this road was defended from the Federal positions by intrenchments, and at Dinwiddie Court House, five miles southeast, there were outposts and defenses to guard Five Forks. Sheridan and the infantry corps of Warren, Wright and Humphreys moved together toward the Federal left, and Lee sent out General R. H. Anderson with detached divisions to cope with this strong force. Fitzhugh Lee was in command of the Confederate cavalry in this vicinity, and his chief ordered him to Five Forks.

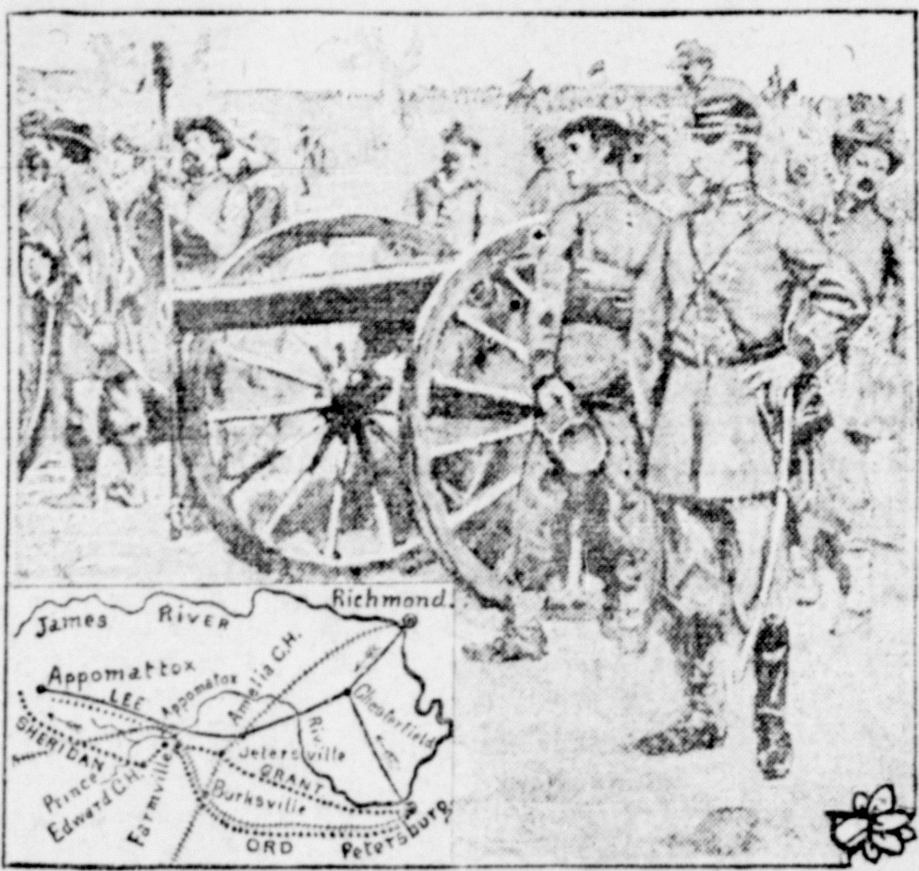

Fitzhugh advanced to Dinwiddie Court House with his cavalry and fought Sheridan there on the 30th. On the 31st Sheridan's entire force fought Fitzhugh Lee, Rosser and W. H. F. Lee, with some infantry under General George E. Pickett, who commanded the force in the trenches at Five Forks. That night Fitzhugh Lee retired all of his force to the forks, and Warren's Fifth corps was added to Sheridan's command and marched to the left to join in an attack on the intrenchments at Five Forks, where Pickett had five brigades of infantry and ten guns.

Sheridan moved his cavalry so as to threaten the position and engage the enemy, while Warren's troops assaulted a point of the works on the White Oak road. Warren found the point and in a short time had placed Craw-

Lee's Desperate Retreat.

Some time after midnight on the 3d the magazine at Fort Drewry, on James river, little more than halfway from Petersburg to Richmond, blew up, lighting the whole heavens. It was visible on the Petersburg lines, and as it was followed by other explosions and by fires nearer to Petersburg it became very plain that a general destruction was going on along Lee's twenty miles of defenses. At daylight the Ninth corps pickets advanced to the enemy's trenches and found the camps deserted.

The brigade of General Ralph Ely moved rapidly toward Petersburg on the river road and received the surrender about 4:30 a. m. President Lincoln reached the city about noon. Grant was already there, and there was hearty rejoicing among soldiery and citizens because the tedious siege was over. News came from Richmond that that stronghold had been entered by ford's division squarely in the rear of Pickett's across a covered road. The Confederates lost six guns, 4,500 prisoners and thirteen flags.

Fall of Petersburg.

Promptly on learning that the army had carried Five Forks Grant ordered a demonstration on the Petersburg lines. A bombardment was kept up all night, and Grant began an assault at 4 o'clock on the morning of April 2 with the men of Ord's, Wright's and Parke's commands. Wright's Sixth corps carried all before it and pressing on to the South Side railroad, leaving, however, the original defenses encircling Petersburg on its right rear. This compelled Wright to face about and form a new line.

Ord and Humphreys also carried the works on their front and, pressing through to Hatcher's run, cut the Confederate army south of the Appomattox in two. Parke's Ninth corps troops took the outer lines in front of them, but could not carry the inner lines. The Confederate artillery was all in position and swept every foot of ground along the whole front. Several attempts were made by General Gordon, who still commanded in front of the Ninth corps, to retake the ground seized by Parke, but all failed.

The river roads along the Appomattox running into Petersburg from the south were held by Ord and Wright. Near where they passed the Confederate defenses there were two strong works, Fort Gregg and Whitworth. Fort Gregg had a garrison of 200 men and two guns. Fort Whitworth a brigade and three guns. After a stubborn fight Fort Gregg yielded, and Whitworth was then abandoned. There were fifty-five dead Confederates in Fort Gregg, and the assailants lost over 100 killed and 600 wounded.

The Confederates were now completely separated, one column confronting Sheridan and Humphreys, who had swept westward along the track from Petersburg, and the other being in the contracted lines at Petersburg and along the James toward Richmond. Lee was at Petersburg.

And oh, how many dark places would brighten, heavy loads grow light and new courage come to the heart if only simple kindness were the rule of earth!

SEA WANDERER ENDS LONG TRIP

Nathan Cohen, Repeatedly Deported, Finally Finds Haven.

SPENT YEAR ON STEAMSHIP.

Release Obtained by New York Lawyer and Strange Traveler Will Be Cared For by Hebrew Sheltering Society. Member of Knights of Pythias Lodge of Jacksonville, Fla.

Nathan Cohen, once a resident of Brazil and then of the United States, who finally became a man without a country and spent more than a year shuttling between Brazilian and United States ports, none of which would receive him, has ended his strange career as a sea rover. Cohen landed from the Lamport and Holt liner Vasari at New York fifteen minutes before the vessel was scheduled to sail for Valparaiso.

The continuous journey which he ended March 27 included in all 33,740 miles. Half an hour before the Vasari was scheduled to sail Cohen, who was alleged to be demented, expected to go with her to add another leg of 7,000 miles to his seagoing search for a homeland, as the immigration authorities would not permit him to remain in this country. But a telephone message from Washington brought a change in the situation. It instructed the immigration officials to take Cohen ashore. It is understood that matters have been so arranged that there will be no further deportation and that Cohen will be released on a bond to be signed by the Hebrew Sheltering and Guardian society guaranteeing that the wanderer will not become a public charge.

Case an Unusual One.

Cohen's case became one of the strangest in the records of deported immigrants. After arriving in New York in 1912 he turned up a year ago in a Virginia hospital suffering from what appeared to be insanity. As he had been here less than three years, he was ordered deported to Brazil, but the Brazilian authorities said he really was a Russian subject. The Russian consul in New York said he could not certify Cohen was a Russian subject without proofs. Cohen himself lapsed into silence and could tell nothing about himself. So his career as a sea rover was started. He arrived in New York recently much improved by his year at sea.

Cohen this time was in a mood for conversation. To agents of the Hebrew Sheltering and Guardian society he said that he was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge at Jacksonville, Fla. William Grossman, supreme commander of the Knights of Pythias, made an investigation and verified Cohen's statement.

Armed with a big bundle of documents, Samuel Littman, a representative of ex-Judge Leon Sanders, who became interested in the case, went to Washington. He obtained a hearing before John B. Densmore, the acting secretary of labor, the result of which was that a telephone message was sent to New York just in time to save Cohen from a round trip to Chile.

Edna lived in Pensacola with her mother, who has been separated from her husband, the child's father, for some time. The probation officer in Pensacola offered to send Edna back to Virginia, and the mother made no objection. The officer had no funds to pay the fare of a grown up traveling companion for the child, so he did the next best thing, which was to intrust her to the parcel post.

EXILE RISKS JAIL TO SAVE EYESIGHT

Court Lenient to Government Swindler Who Surrenders.

RETURN AMAZES OFFICIALS.

Fugitive Tells of Days of Agitation and Sleepless Nights He Spent Debating Alternative That Faced Him Either of Going Blind or Meeting Possibility of Prison Sentence.

A fugitive from justice for thirteen years, John F. Ehrigott, once a wealthy commission merchant, returned to New York to consult a specialist who, he believed, could save him from blindness. When Ehrigott gave himself up to the federal authorities he knew that he ran the risk of going to jail, but this possibility was eclipsed by his fear of losing his eyesight.

Roger B. Wood, chief of the criminal division of the United States attorney's office, was sitting at his desk when Ehrigott entered his room. He stared in amazement when the visitor said: "I want to give myself up and plead guilty."

"I'd dearly love to accommodate you," replied Mr. Wood, "but really you have the bulge on me. I don't even know who you are."

"I'm Ehrigott," was the reply, "and I was indicted in 1902 for customs fraud. Now do you recall?"

Mr. Wood shook his head despairingly. Then he sent upstairs for Captain Ball, head of the federal indictment bureau, who has grown not only gray, but white in the federal service. Captain Ball remembered having drawn up the indictment charging Ehrigott with defrauding the government of at least $25,000 in duties on carloads of Canadian beans brought into this country free of duty because ostensibly bound for transshipment to Cuba.

Gets Off With Fine.

Assured of the identity, Mr. Wood summoned the latter's attorney, Abel I. Smith, and took the defendant before Judge Charles M. Hough in the United States district court, where Ehrigott entered a plea of guilty. Mr. Wood wanted the judge to give Ehrigott a substantial prison sentence, but the court was moved by Attorney Smith's statement that his client was suffering with diabetes and a severe affliction of the eyes. A fine of $1,000 was imposed on Ehrigott, and he was also served with a summons in a civil suit by which the government hopes to recover the full amount of the duties out of which it was defrauded.

Ehrigott's shipping scheme was exceptional in that it not only defrauded the government, but the consignee of the shipment as well. He was then senior partner of the firm of Ehrigott & Newman, commission merchants. Canadian beans ordered by this firm for shipment to Cuba were placed in a bonded warehouse in New York, where, through the connivance of certain government officials, it is said, a cheaper brand of American beans was substituted and sent on to Cuba as Canadian beans.

Swindled at Both Ends.

The Cuban consignees therefore had to pay a high rate of duty on American beans which they had bought at Canadian prices. In the meantime the firm of Ehrigott & Newman had acquired a consignment of expensive Canadian beans free of duty and for the price of American beans. This practice was continued by the firm for several years. Arraigned on the indictment in 1902, Ehrigott gave cash bail of $15,000 and then forfeited it by fleeing to Nova Scotia. At Yarmouth he set himself up in the fish business and prospered. A few years ago he became afflicted with his eye trouble. He consulted Canadian and European specialists, but could get no relief. Then he was told that a specialist in New York could cure him.

Ehrigott told Mr. Wood of the days of agitation and the sleepless nights he spent debating the alternative that faced him—either of going blind or returning to face the possibility of a prison sentence. He finally decided to throw himself on the mercy of the court.

SLY WINK SAVES "CORPSE."

Lumberjack Found Coffin in Morgue Cozy Place For Nap.

A "wink" probably saved William Kincaid of Engadine, Mich., from being buried alive.

Kincaid, who is a lumberjack, had come to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., seeking work. After amassing himself in true lumberjack fashion he wandered into a morgue and crawled into a coffin to sleep. Morgue employees, after closing several caskets, approached the one that held the drowsy jack. The woodsman turned over and winked.

He was released from the police court after pleading guilty to a charge of intoxication.

Clock Knocks Him Out.

Smith J. Noe of Sayville, N. Y., veteran of the civil war, was winding his grandfather's clock just before going to bed when the ratchet slipped. The spring unwound with such violence that two of his fingers were broken by the pin, and he was sent sprawling across the floor.

Rather a Reflection.

A San Francisco clergyman recently at the close of his sermon announced that in the course of the week he expected to go on a mission to the heathen. One of his parishioners ex-

We had called at Mauritius on our way from Liverpool to Bombay in the ship Farewell and were five days out from the island when the adventure occurred by which we lost the captain and laid the foundation for this story. He was swept overboard in the course of a heavy storm.

Almost before he realized his position the ship was a mile away, and he felt sure that no boat would be lowered to make a search for him. Having found a spar and lashed himself to it, he drifted away to the west and evening came on. Night passed and another day came, and toward the close of that day Captain Graham lost consciousness. He may have drifted a day after that—perhaps two days. When he came to his senses again he was lying on a sandy beach with his feet in the water. He had been cast ashore on an island.

Along the beach were oysters and shellfish aplenty. What struck him curiously was the entire absence of life on the island. He had been on the island a week or so and had twice walked clear around it, when one day, as he was gathering fruit in an open spot, he was suddenly and fiercely attacked by a naked man. The surprise was great, and the captain had not yet recovered his strength; but, shaking the man off, he seized a club and laid about him so vigorously that his assailant ran away.

In breaking away from the captain he ran for the beach. The latter followed at his heels, shouting for him to stop, but the unknown ran to the water, plunged in and swam straight out to sea, looking back now and then and seeming to be in a terrible fright. He held to his course until he could no longer be seen, and there was no doubt he went to his death, as he did not return. In a dense thicket the captain found a rude shelter which the man had used, and among the dried grass forming his bed were a few fragments of cloth, which had once been a pea packet. There were also a sailor's pipe and an empty tobacco box.

The center of the island was considerably higher than elsewhere, and exactly in the middle was a single tree, surrounded by a thicket, which the captain had never yet penetrated. In carrying out his explorations he entered this copse, finding a hard beaten path, evidently made by the crazy man. Piled up at the roots of the tree the captain found a great stock of small iron bound boxes, and it needed but one glance to satisfy him that they were treasure boxes. There was the cavity where they had once been buried, and the boxes were weather beaten, as if long exposed. Two or three large shells lay about, which had doubtless been used to dig out the dirt, and one of the boxes had been opened.

The captain shouldered this box and carried it down to the spot he called "home" and there inspected its contents. It contained about $6,000 in gold. In the pile at the foot of the tree were fifteen other boxes of the same size.

Well, there was a big fortune there, and it belonged to the finder, but it might have been so much sand for all the good it could do him. Days and weeks and months passed away, and one day the castaway counted up the pebbles he had laid in rows along the beach to mark the time and found he had been eleven months on the island. On that day there came a furious gale from the east and a very high tide, and from some wreck at sea the waves brought in a vast quantity of stuff. There was nothing to eat or wear among the wreckage, but there were planks and spars and a carpenter's tool chest, and as soon as the storm had abated the castaway went to work to build him a raft. He had determined to leave the island at any hazard, and after four or five days' work he had his raft completed. It was a rude but stout affair. Wild fruits were taken for provisions, and fresh water was carried in a wine keg which had come ashore with the wreckage. From one of the boxes the captain took $500 in gold pieces, and one morning when the wind was from the west he launched his raft and drifted off before it. By his reckoning, which was probably correct, it was seven days before he was picked up by the John J. Speed, an American merchant vessel, homeward bound.

Captain Graham at once set about finding a ship to bring the treasure off. A brig was finally chartered and sailed with him aboard, but after a cruise of months she failed to find the island.

In the space of two years he made three different voyages in search of the island, and when the story leaked out three or four other expeditions were fitted out, but in all the sailing to and fro no human eye could find the looked for spot. If it had been raised from the sea by a volcanic disturbance, had a second disturbance caused the sea to swallow it up? There are many reasons to believe that this was the fate which overtook it. About ten years after the captain's last voyage a volcanic island, which was simply a barren rock about a mile in circumference, was pushed above water where his island was supposed to be, and it is there today with a fringe of trees all around the outer edge. It has been searched inch by inch for treasure, but not a single gold piece has it yielded up.

CHIEF, "why, my dear doctor, you have never told us one word of this before. It leaves us unprepared. What shall we do?" "Brother," said the minister solemnly, "I shall not leave town."

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CANNED CORN DAINTIES.

Succotash.
COVER a pint of lima beans with cold water and cook until tender, and then add a can of corn and a slice of bacon and cook for fifteen minutes; then take out the bacon, season with salt and pepper, add a half cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of flour rolled in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook until the flour is cooked through and serve very hot.

Corn Pudding.
Add four egg yolks, well beaten, to a can of corn, with a teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of flour creamed, with a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of milk, a little salt and then add the whites of four eggs, beaten stiff. The sugar may be omitted if the sweet taste is not desired.

Corn Oysters.
To two cupfuls of canned corn add two eggs, beaten light, two tablespoonfuls of milk, two of flour, two teaspoonfuls of melted butter and a teaspoonful of salt. Fry some bacon crisp in a frying pan and remove it to a hot platter. Pour off some of the melted fat and in the rest fry the corn mixture in tablespoonfuls until brown on both sides. Serve with the bacon.

Corn Soup.
Put the contents of a can of corn through a vegetable cutter and then through a vegetable press. Simmer with a slice of onion, a couple of pieces of celery and some salt in a pint of water for half an hour. Then add two cupfuls of milk thickened with two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until the mixture is smooth. Season and serve very hot.

Corn Chowder.
Pare two big potatoes and cut them into dice. Chop an onion fine. Put a layer of the potatoes in the bottom of a saucepan and sprinkle with onions, pepper and salt. Add a layer of canned corn. Continue until the contents of a can and all the potatoes and onions are used. Then add two cupfuls of veal, mutton or chicken stock or the same amount of water, cover and simmer for twenty minutes. Add three tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed with one of butter into a ball; cook five minutes more, season further if necessary, take from the fire, add a beaten egg yolk and serve at once.

Corn and Tomatoes.
Mix the contents of a can of corn with the contents of a can of tomatoes, add a little onion juice, salt and pepper to taste and simmer for fifteen minutes. Then add a generous tablespoonful of butter and serve very hot.

FULL CREW LAW PROPOSITION

Senator Fisher Shows Public Service Commission Should Act.

Harrisburg, April 6. Members of the legislature having close before them the question of repeal of the Full Crew—excess man crew—law, with an empowering of the Public Service Commission to determine the manning of trains, are giving second thought to the statement as made in the hearing March 23 by John S. Fisher.

Senator Fisher started with the proposition that the railroad recognized the police power of the state to determine the manning of trains so as to protect life and property, adding, "we are simply here to ask a modification of the manner in which the police power is exercised. As it stands upon the statute books today it is in the form of a rigid, unchangeable act."

He said that when the act was passed there was nobody with jurisdiction on the subject, that in 1913 a Public Utilities Commission was created, "charged with full and ample and complete power to regulate just such subjects as this and of nearly every subject, except this one."

"Is it not wise, recognizing as we do the power of the state to lay its hand upon this question, to take it out of the rigid form into which it has been cast and place it in the hands of the commission?"

Senator Fisher said that the law has been on trial in the court of experience, and having "failed to accomplish the purpose for which it was enacted, it should be wiped from the statute books and something substituted that will accomplish what both the man and railroad managements want. We do not want legislation ever put on or taken off the books that would endanger the life of anybody, but if the law that was passed imposes a burden upon the railroad companies and indirectly upon the public and fails to accomplish its purpose," then it should be repealed.

The above article is furnished by the railroads in their efforts for the repeal of the Full Crew Bill.

Curtis Guild Critically Ill.

Medical Advertising Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

SMOKE BELLEW

By JACK LONDON

OUR new serial is one of the best stories Jack London ever wrote.

It is about the iron muscled giants of the gold fields—about real men who face danger and sudden death without flinching.

It is by an author who has braved the snows and ice of the Yukon and has lived the life like Smoke Bellew, his hero.

It is as rich as a "mother lode" of Alaska—rich in adventure, romance, privation, heroism and love that is greater than death itself.

FRENCH ATTACK AT SEVEN POINTS

Large Forces Are Engaged Near Verdun.

FIGHTING NIGHT AND DAY

Launch Fierce Offensive Against the German Lines Between Verdun and the Moselle River.

London, April 7.—The French have launched a new offensive to the eastward of Verdun and fierce fighting is in progress between that city and the Moselle river. Large French forces are attacking at seven points in that region.

The report from German headquarters in Berlin says:

"Since Monday the French have become particularly active between the Meuse and the Moselle, employing strong forces and a large amount of artillery. They attacked northeast, east and southeast of Verdun, and also at Ailly, Apremont, Flirey and northwest of Pont-a-Mousson.

"Northeast and east of Verdun their attacks did not develop, on account of our fire. Southeast of Verdun they were repulsed. On the eastern edge of the Meuse heights the enemy succeeded in obtaining temporarily a foothold in a small part of our outer trenches, but was driven out again during the night.

"The battle in the neighborhood of Ailly and Apremont continued during the night without any success to our opponents.

"In the neighborhood of Flirey the fighting was very bitter. Several French attacks were repulsed there.

"West of the forest of Le Pretre a strong French attack north of the highroad between Flirey and Pont-a-Mousson broke down.

"Notwithstanding the very heavy losses which our opponents suffered during the engagement, it must be assumed that in accordance with the recent dispositions of their forces they will continue their attacks in this district, the hopelessness of all their efforts in the Champagne having become clear."

The statement from the Paris war office follows:

"Rain and mist continue over the whole front. To the southwest of Vanuets we gained a footing in one of the enemy's works. In the wood of Ailly, southeast of St. Mihiel, our gain of three successive lines of trenches, already announced, was marked also by the capture of prisoners, a machine gun and a bomb thrower.

"We made progress in the wood of Brule, eastward of the wood of Ailly. We have maintained our possession of the positions captured to the northeast of Regneville, already announced."

Quiet on British Front.

London, April 7.—There was given out a British semi-weekly report on the progress of hostilities under date of April 5, as follows:

"The situation remains quiet on our front. A change in the weather limited the possibilities of activity on the part of our airmen. Early in the morning of April 3 we successfully exploded a mine under the German trenches in the neighborhood of La Bassee. A length of 100 yards of trench and part of a brick stack were destroyed, and as a result all German activity in the immediate neighborhood terminated. The German artillery, however, has subjected our front in that quarter to a heavy bombardment."

BRITISH OFFICER LOSS HEAVY

1844 Have Been Killed, 3301 Wounded and 732 Reported Missing.

London, April 7.—An officers' casualty list shows that the British army since the beginning of the war has had 1844 officers killed and 3301 officers wounded, while 732 have been reported missing. This is a total of 5877.

In some organizations the casualties were particularly heavy. The Cameron Highlanders had 16 officers killed and 17 wounded; the Gordon Highlanders, 9 killed and 23 wounded; the Northampton regiment, 11 killed and 10 wounded; the Rifle Brigade, 10 killed and 14 wounded; the Royal Irish Rifles, 9 killed and 11 wounded, and the Worcester regiment, 13 killed and 11 wounded.

Drove Wife to Suicide, Is Charge.

Allentown, Pa., April 7.—On a charge of having driven his wife to suicide, District Attorney Lawrence H. Rupp caused the arrest of Lawrence Dushock, of Fogelsville, and he was committed to jail. Dushock is alleged to have been abusive on Sunday after his wife and three children returned from church. The woman locked herself in her room and took poison.

Curtis Guild, Jr. Dies. Heston, April 7.—Curtis Guild, Jr., former governor of Massachusetts, died here, aged fifty-five years. Mr. Guild's illness began in a cold contracted after a trip to Salem, on April 1, and rapidly developed into pneumonia. Among his callers after he was stricken was former President Taft, an intimate friend of long standing.

WILLARD'S VICTORY YIELDS NO MONEY

Receipts and Expenses of Fight About $70,000.

Havana, Cuba, April 7.—Jess Willard's victory over Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world did not yield him any money directly.

Willard has the consolation of knowledge of the gate receipts, and as the amount taken in was only $70,000 and the expense reached the same figure, there was nothing left for the new champion.

Willard has the consolation of knowing that he has opened a gold mine by his win, however, and the money will come rolling in to him in the future.

The city of Havana is fast resuming its customary aspect after the intrusion upon its normal life of the excitement and the enthusiasm incident to the passing of the world's heavyweight championship from Jack Johnson to Jess Willard in the twenty-sixth round of the contest between them.

It is said Johnson will take the first boat to Martinique and there await a steamer for England, going later to Paris.

DEAL WITH GREECE OFF

Venizelos Says England Guaranteed Country Against Bulgarian Danger.

Athens, April 7.—M. Venizelos, the former premier, in discussing government affairs in Greece, declared that the negotiations instituted by the Triple Entente to get the Greeks to help the Serbians have been broken off.

The proposal was made by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, who guaranteed Greece against danger from Bulgaria. British and French troops were to be landed in Macedonia for this purpose.

SUBMARINE CAUGHT IN NET

British Trap Foe's Under-Sea Boat With Special Device Near Dover.

Paris, April 7.—A German submarine has become securely entangled in a net especially designed for that purpose, and placed off Dover, according to the Petit Journal's Dunkirk correspondent, who adds that the French naval authorities expect to capture the German submersible when it comes to the surface.

Full Crew Bill Reported.

The committee decided to let the measure be debated on the floor of the house, and it was placed on the calendar upon recommendation of Representative Sinclair.

The Building of the Nest.

They'll come again to the apple tree—Robin and all the rest. When the orchard branches are fair to see. In the snow of the blossoms drest, And the prettiest thing in the world will be The building of the nest.

Weaving it well, so round and trim, Hollowing it with care. Nothing too far away for him. Nothing for her too fair. Hanging it safe on the topmost limb, Their castle in the air.

Ah, mother bird, you'll have weary days When the eggs are under your breast, And shadows may darken the dancing rays. When the wee ones leave the nest, But they'll find their wings in a glad amaze, And God will see to the rest!

So come to the tree with all your train When the apple blossoms blow; Through the April shimmer of sun and rain. Go flying to and fro. And sing to our hearts as we watch again Your fairy building grow. —Margaret E. Sangster.

TRAINMEN'S HEAD MAKES APPEAL

Admits Public is Against the Excess Man Crew Law.

Trenton, April 6.

That there was never any general demand for the Full Crew—excess man crew—Law is admitted by W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in a statement submitted to members of the organization for their "information and instruction." He adds that "it was passed on the needs of the railways' organizations and passed for their protection."

"Our membership realizes this fully, but the general public does not. It takes the word of the railway companies that these organizations have been altogether wrong and have inflicted undue hardship through the enactment of special and unnecessary legislation."

Mr. Lee then urges that unless this public opinion can be changed "there is every danger that we will lose the greater part of the legislation we have secured."

There seems to be much dissatisfaction among members of the Brotherhood over the expense of the legislative efforts, for Mr. Lee says: "Many complaints have been received protesting against the expense incurred by grievance committees or legislative boards, and in some instances the protests seem to have been well founded. It appears that those selected to act for the Brotherhood have not in some instances shown proper regard for their constituents." Mr. Lee closes his information statement to members by advising that in January 345 dropped out of the organization.

The above article is furnished by the railroads in their efforts for the repeal of the Full Crew Bill.

Physician's Prescription For Indigestion

Important for All Those Who Suffer After Eating.

If you suffer from indigestion after eating and find that instead of the one little peppin or soda pill you used to take, it now needs two or three to stop it, it's time you called a halt and did some hard thinking.

The plain truth is that there are thousands of men and women in this country whose stomachs are dead or dying from lack of exercise while they themselves still live.

Years ago a famous physician wrote the prescription for Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets and thousands owe their very life to them to-day. Most stomach remedies work on the food and digest it. Mi-o-na works on the stomach and digests nothing. Mi-o-na Tablets strengthen the stomach walls, stimulate the stomach muscles and vitalize the stomach machinery into instant and normal action. The People's Drug Store and many other leading druggists hereabouts sell Mi-o-na Tablets, agreeing to refund money in any case where it does not bring complete relief. If your own druggist thinks this well of Mi-o-na you surely ought to try it.

Crucified

Loud o'er the roar of cannon, The mighty victor spoke: Down go their crushed battalions Before each master stroke. The siege was stout and stubborn, The fight was fierce and long, But right must ever triumph Above the cause of wrong. To him our thanks are rendered On his eternal throne. To him, the God of justice, Who made our cause his own.

There burst a wail of anguish From blackened war scarred plains: Yours is the blood stained present, The future still remaining: Crushed by a heel of iron, The worm will turn again: When from the dust and ashes We rise—heaven help you then! Look to your hard earned laurels, For still the world runs true, As you have done to others So will God do to you.

Then like a gentle whisper, The rippling of the reeds From breezes scarcely stirring Along the flowery meads: There comes a voice at even, After the tumult dies, When o'er the misty landscape A peaceful mantle lies: A voice of soft compassion With tender love shot through: "Forgive them, O my Father, For they know not what they do," —Harry Bowling in Los Angeles Times.

GOOSE YIELDS GOLDEN "EGG"

Nugget Worth $15 Is Found Imbedded In Bird's Gizzard.

To find imbedded in the gizzard of a goose which he killed a gold nugget valued at the sum of $15 was the experience of Jake Weller of Live Oak, Cal. The gold was in an irregular mass and adhered to the gizzard of the bird. According to a physician who examined the same, it must have been lodged in the gizzard for some time, but failed to kill the bird.

Weller has had the nugget mounted as a handsome gold watch charm by a Marysville jeweler and prizes the same very highly. It is believed the goose picked the nugget up somewhere while feeding and swallowed it. The goose proved to be a most valuable bird, and Weller is receiving the congratulations of his friends on his capture of such a prize.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS

The Best Women's Suits You Ever Saw at moderate prices—Wooltex, of course.

By special co-operation with the manufacturers of Wooltex tailored garments we have been able to assemble this remarkable collection. The models are wonderfully handsome, and in great variety. The materials are the popular gabardines, serges, poplins, coverts and checks.

The illustration shows just four of the many superb designs.

When you consider that every material is absolutely all wool; that every fabric has been selected because of its superior qualities, and its correctness of style—

When you examine the linings of the garments and realize that every piece of silk is pure silk—

When you see how beautifully the garments are made, and are shown with what care and thoroughness every seam is run, and every vital point of tailoring is executed—

When you try on the garments and see how they conform to the figure, and how soft and elegant they feel—

When you realize the beautiful lines are not bolstered up by stiff canvas, but are tailored into a form which will retain its shapeliness during the life of the garment—

You will be amazed that garments of such elegance, refinement and general superiority can be bought for such reasonable prices as are marked on them.

Descriptions of the Suits Illustrated

The suit at the left of the picture, No. 1709, is adapted from a Paquin model. The effective pocket flaps are set on diagonally and outlined by closely-set buttons. The rolling collar is finished with tabs that button down on the jacket; slightly diagonal front. New circular skirt, with partial over-yoke, trimmed with buttons like the jacket.

The second figure, No. 1710, illustrates a suit adapted from a recent Doucet model. A charming effect is produced by the slash at each side of the coat, finished with buttons and buttonholes. The partial belt from side to side across the back holds in the fulness. Officer's collar overlaid with detachable washable collar.

No. 1711 is a charming suit in youthful effect with a panel back, which extends below the line of the coat at sides and in front. The partial belt around the back and sides ends at the panel in front. The skirt flares moderately below the yoke. The materials are serge, box poplin, and black and white checks.

Suit No. 1720 at the right is in a smart Polo effect, well cut on plain lines, with moderate fulness; finished with smart pockets on both jacket and skirt. Made in checks, poplin and covert cloth.

Many other Wooltex models at $25.00 to $30.00 combine variety and excellence that are absolutely unequalled in this city. But you must see them personally to appreciate fully their extraordinary value.

When may we have the pleasure of showing them to you?

MUSIC TO CONVERT CROOKS

Calms Jags in Cells Also, Says Pittsburgh's Police Head.

Superintendent of Police W. Noble Matthews of Pittsburgh, after exhaustive experiments, asserted that music will "convert the crook and calm jags." He has arranged that the police quartet, which sang in the Tabernacle during Billy Sunday's services, will disburse music nightly in Central station in an effort to better the lives of wayward ones.

If professional crooks are locked up the singers render solemn and pathetic songs and hymns. For the drunks rag-time is selected, as it never fails to rouse them to good humor. When the quartet sang recently, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" three pick-pockets wept in their cells.

NOT PARTED EVEN BY DEATH.

Married Sixty Years, End For Both Almost Simultaneous.

In Creadley Heath, England, more than eighty years ago two children were born, a boy and a girl, within a stone's throw of each other. They played together, they went to school together, they courted, and sixty years ago they married. They moved to this country, and they died within seven hours of each other.

These two people, whose lives ran happily side by side for more than three-quarters of a century, were Mr. and Mrs. William Woodhall, 195 Henry street, Stamford, Conn.

Her Four Sons Generals.

Frau Marie Schoch, aged widow of a colonel and a resident of Munich, can boast of having four sons in the field who are all of the rank of general, according to the Muenchner Neueste Nachrichten. She is the mother of Lieutenant General Gustav and Albert von Schoch, of Major General Karl von Schoch and of Major General Emil Schoch. All of her sons have already been decorated with the Iron cross and all but the youngest with that of the first class.

High Cost of Fighting

Four super-Dreadnoughts,
Sailing o'er the sea.
Along came a submarine—
Then there were three.

Three super-Dreadnoughts,
Spick and span and new.
One shot from a torpedo—
Then there were two.

Two super-Dreadnoughts,
Cost ten million bones.
Struck against a floating mine—
Gone to Davy Jones.

Fifty million dollars sunk
In the deep, deep sea.
While the little submarine
Puffs on in her glee.
